Lori Reynolds,

Thank you for your interest in the Unit owners of Doverbrook Association.

Yes, the website is available to all unit owners to add input. We are in the process of adding a web portal to allow a type of bulletin board for unit owners to respond in any way they wish. Any unit owner will be able to upload information including files to the website directly themselves.

It is the intention of the committee to develop a section specific for property listings to include images and descriptions with contact information.

In the meantime, if you want to add any information to the website, you may submit any information you wish to the email address as noted below.

Original:

Is this website available to all unitowners to add input on what's been said or to provide information or perhaps maybe like a bulletin board if they wanted to buy or sell something?
